

Memorys

This song is about so much pain, suffering and grief
About the emptiness the dead soul in me and all the black around me
This song is about you
Look into my soul
Cause you know me better than anyone
Because when you hear these lines you will know why

Your glow will stay because I remember you
Years may go by
This remains your most precious gift to me

This is my memory of you
Not a day goes by that I can forget
The day I met you in the cold February night
How our eyes met the first time blind trust from the first second that we both shared How your arm wrapped around me
And you gave me your jacket to protect me from the cold
The one that never got before me

Your glow will stay because I remember you
Years may go by
This remains your most precious gift to me

This song is about so much pain, suffering and grief
About the emptiness the dead soul in me and all the black around me
This song is about you
Look into my soul
Cause you know me better than anyone
Because when you hear these lines you will know why

The memories don't let go of me
My first thoughts when I get up and my last when I fall asleep in the evening
The thoughts we shared and the texts we wrote to ourselves
When I close my eyes I see my hand in your my head on your chest
I can still feel and hear your heartbeat today
The melodies you played for me on the guitar

And it's not love that I feel for you because what I feel goes so much deeper
But I can neither describe nor define this depth it was just there

Your glow will stay because I remember you
Years may go by
This remains your most precious gift to me

This song is about so much pain, suffering and grief
About the emptiness the dead soul in me and all the black around me
This song is about you
Look into my soul
Cause you know me better than anyone
Because when you hear these lines you will know why

But then the day came when you left
The day you sent me the message that I was so scared of You didn't say anything for a while
But you once said to me that you will never leave, never leave me alone and now look at us what happened to us
I would like to yell at you, argue with you, forgive you for what you are doing to me with it instead of having to go through this without you You couldn't hear my screams or see my tears
That flowed for you and still flow today
The fears that I suddenly feel
And the dead who came to me afterwards

Your glow will stay because I remember you
Years may go by
This remains your most precious gift to me

This song is about so much pain, suffering and grief
About the emptiness the dead soul in me and all the black around me
This song is about you
Look into my soul
Cause you know me better than anyone
Because when you hear these lines you will know why

Because I was never ready to let you go and I never will be
