

Two loves

Two loves

Like two hearts in my chest,
One beats for you and one for you!
Like the eternal agony of a decision,
Seldom so happy as in my dreams.

From the one heart speaks:
I love this girl,
From the other heart:
I love this boy!

But please understand, girl;
I love you! I love you so much!
But please understand, boy;
I love you! I love you so much too!

Two hearts in my chest,
One beats for you and one for you!
Like the eternal agony of a decision,
Only rarely so happy as in my dreams.

Why should I choose?
When I love you both?
Don't you understand that I can love more than one?
Don't you understand that I want only you?

Sure, it's unusual, crazy!
How can you love only two?
You have to choose, you can't have everything!
Is it really too much, really?

Two hearts in my chest,
One beats for you and one for you!
Like the eternal agony of a decision,
Only rarely so happy as in my dreams.

In the end, I am shy after all,
I choose him...
One heart is happy, the other weeps.
But what should I do, huh?

And why the boy, you ask.

I have no idea about girls
And don't want to break both hearts.
That's what happens with forced decisions!

Two hearts in my chest,
One beats for you and one for you!
Like the eternal agony of a decision,
Only rarely so happy as in my dreams.

Please don't break my hearts!
I don't want to die for a lifetime!
