

Death is a gift

I am in love with the death am I?

Sounds crazy I know.

However all the loved ones around me are dying so why not treading the death as a present that everybody is going to receive ones.

Everybody will die that is a fact.

The death can be scary, dark and harmful but also blessing, satisfying and joyful.

It is good that I know that if my life does not work out there is always the death that treats me like his little baby and helps me to find joy again although it is in an other world.
